Shouts of Laughter Quickly Change to Screams of Terror as Steamer Turns Over While at Wharf—Rescuers Find Victims Piled High in Cabins—Officers of Vessel Under Arrest and Federal Authorities Start Investigation—Work of Removing Bodies Continues and Latest Estimates Increase Appalling Totals—Near-Similar Accident Eight Years Ago

By Associated Press.
CHICAGO, JULY 24. — AT 2:40 THIS AFTERNOON CORONER HOFFMAN ESTIMATED THE NUMBER OF DEAD AT 1300.
DEPUTY CHIEF OF POLICE SCHEULTER ESTIMATES THE DEAD AT 1700.

Chicago, July 24.—Probably 1200 persons were drowned in the Chicago river today by the capsizing, at the wharf, of the steamer Eastland.

Six hours after the accident the police had checked more than 600 bodies recovered, and estimates were that perhaps 1,200 men, women and children had perished. Others placed the number as even higher.

At two o'clock 679 bodies had been recovered from the wreck of the steamer Eastland. This number is the result of a tabulation of known dead at 10 morgues. Of these 505 were at an emergency Red Cross station in a warehouse. The count was announced by the physicians in charge.

Federal Judge Landis ordered a special grand jury investigation of the disaster. The jury will meet next Thursday.

Firemen, who chopped their way through the sides of the vessel, found bodies piled on one another like so many boxes of merchandise. Bodies were removed to downtown morgues in wagonloads. Sixty per cent of the dead are women.

Investigating officials leaned strongly toward the theory that the peculiar construction of the boat was responsible for the accident. The Eastland was equipped with water ballast, so that it could enter shallow ports and river mouths.

It was the theory of officials that most of the ballast had been forced from the tanks in anticipation of a heavy load today. The steamer was thus rendered top heavy, it was thought, and this, if a fact, would explain why she capsized so quickly.

The crowding of passengers to one side of the boat is supposed to have caused the tragedy, but authorities, not satisfied with this explanation, ordered the arrest of officers of the boat and Captain Harry Pederson and Dell Fisher, first mate, were taken to police headquarters.

Panic struck the passengers when the boat began to turn over. Best accounts of witnesses say the steamer rolled slightly twice, then turned further; and that hundreds of screaming men, women and children slid across the sloping decks, fought for room and clutched at companions, deck chairs or any other object that came to hand.

Women and children by the hundred were caught below decks, and the scratched faces, torn clothing and bruised bodies of the dead bore mute evidence of the desperation with which they had fought for life.

Chicago, July 24.—Deputy Coroner David Jones and Sheriff John E. Treger of Cook county, who are directing the work of removing bodies from the hull of the Eastland, stated that from reports of the bodies still within the hull, they feared the loss of dead should reach 1,200 and might reach 1,500.

Chicago, July 24.—Four hours after the accident rescuers were still taking bodies from the Eastland through holes chopped in its hull, and estimates of the death list ran from 700 to 1,500. At 11 o'clock nearly 500 dead had been found.

Chicago, July 24.—Hundreds of persons were drowned by the capsizing of the steamship Eastland at her dock in the Chicago river shortly before eight o'clock this morning.

Estimates of the loss of life differ. First Deputy Superintendent of Police Schuetler said "two hundred and fifty bodies have been recovered, and I believe that 1,000, in all, perished."

"I believe the other bodies will be recovered when the inner compartments of the boat are reached. We are recovering bodies rapidly and the list of dead is growing fast. My estimate of 1,000 dead is based on information I got from a purser on the boat, who had a narrow escape."

The Chicago Daily News says it is estimated that 1,000 people are either drowned or missing. At 9:40 more than 300 bodies had been recovered from the wreck. This statement was made by Dr. T. S. Carter, who examined the bodies.

An Associated Press man, who got by the guards on the Theodore Roosevelt, a rescue boat, counted 150 bodies in the cabin on that boat. Most of these were women.

The steamer had been chartered for the day by the Western Electric Company employees, who had planned an excursion to Michigan City, Ind. Passengers were crowded on the ship shortly before eight o'clock, the hour it was to leave, when the boat slowly listed toward the middle of the river.

It is said that there were 2,500 people on the steamer. When the boat started to tip the officers shouted warnings, but it was too late. The heavily loaded steamer continued to roll until the hawesers which held it to the dock snapped.

A moment later, amid the screams of passengers, the steamer turned over on its side, and floated out into the middle of the river.

Apparently scores of women and children in the cabin were drowned without being given a chance to escape. Hundreds of other passengers were able to climb on the side of the boat, which is above water, and were later taken off by rescuers.

Life preservers were cast into the river from the steamship Theodore Roosevelt, which was docked across the river, and scores of the Eastland's passengers clung to them until picked up by boats.

The city fire boats, police launches and life boats from nearby steamers in the river, rushed to the rescue. A hole was cut through the side of the lower deck by life savers, and many bodies were taken out.

Some seven thousand tickets had been distributed for the excursion and five steamers chartered by the company. The Eastland was the first to receive passengers.

Hundreds, hurrying to the other boats, were halted by the screams of the Eastland victims. Mercantile concerns hurried motor trucks to the scene, laden with blankets to warm the living or cover the dead.

Pulmotors by the score were sent to the spot. Physicians, police, firemen, lifesavers and nurses were summoned.

The chief of the marine bureau of the customs office declared that the exact number of persons on the boat was 2,500, and the boat was not overloaded. He was present at the dock with two of his steamboat inspectors early this morning.

For the first two hours pulmotors were used, and attempts made to revive every person taken from the wreck. Then, as the hopelessness of saving later victims became apparent divers were sent down and bodies hauled out with ropes.

The Eastland nearly met similar accident eight years ago. Flags are at half mast and scenes similar to those enacted after the Iroquois fire disaster, in 1903, cast a gloom over the city.

The captain of the vessel said he did not know what caused the accident.

EASTLAND FORMERLY OWNED IN CLEVELAND

By Associated Press.

Cleveland, July 24.—The steamer Eastland was owned here for five years, operating between this city and Cedar Point. It was concerned in several accidents, but none was ever attended by loss of life.

While here the Eastland was owned by a company which consisted chiefly of city hall employees during the administration of the late Tom Johnson.

RUSSIANS LOSING GROUND IN STRUGGLE ABOUT WARSAW

By Associated Press.

Berlin, July 24.—Bulletin.—The German army under command of General von Buelow has defeated the Russians in a battle near Shavli, according to an official statement.

The Germans, fighting toward Warsaw, have also stormed the fortresses of Rozan and Pultusk, and have forced a crossing of the Nerw river, the statement adds.

London, July 24.—From all sides except the east, Teutonic armies are continuing their concerted pressure on Warsaw, the fate of which still hangs in the balance.

Direct assaults upon the fortress protecting the city are weakening the defenses, according to the German claim.

They are hammering especially hard upon Ivangorod, where the Teutons' guns are declared to be playing on the railroad line which runs through Lublin and Chelm.

South of Lublin the battle still rages fiercely. No claim is made by any of the belligerents that a definite result has been achieved there.

North-east of the Polish capital, along the line of the Narew, Field Marshal von Hindenburg's forces are pressing hard upon the Russian bridgehead at Rosen.

Petrograd is silent as to the outcome.

Other business was partly suspended while every available force of state departments was used to gather and dispatch food to southern Ohio. Four carloads of provisions, enough to supply a day's food for 9,600 persons, were on their way to the coal fields of Athens and Hocking county where thousands of miners, idle because of the shutdown of mines, are reported to be existing only on the berry crop of the countryside.

Man and Labor.

Lady Russell in her volume "Swallowfield and Its Owners" points out that in 1820 the Berkshire estate came into the hands of Sir Henry Russell, who had been a friend of Dr. Johnson. It was at Russell's table that one day the doctor maintained that "no man loved labor, no man would work if he could help it." Reynolds objected and gave Pope for instance. But Pope's inspiration, said the doctor, "was the love of fame and not the love of labor. Leander swam the Hellespont, but that doesn't prove that he loved swimming."

WILSON CALLS HIS WARCHIEFS

Formal Call for Reports as to Nation's Preparedness Asked By President, Who Is to Confer With Garrison and Daniels on Comprehensive Plans for National Defense.

By Associated Press.

Washington, July 24.—Formal announcement was made at the White House today that President Wilson, on his return to Washington, will confer with Secretaries Garrison and Daniels on a program for national defense.

The president has written to the heads of the War and Navy Departments for reports on the subject, pointing out the necessity for working out plans for increasing the efficiency of the military arms of the government.

The White House statement follows:

"The president has been considering every phase of the matter of national defense and intends immediately, on his return to Washington, to confer with the secretary of war and the secretary of the navy, his purpose being to procure information on which he can formulate a reasonable and practical program of national defense."

Although nothing was stated officially concerning the purpose of the government, it was hinted officially that with the dispatch of the emphatic note to Germany, the president had decided to hasten the reports and recommendations being prepared by the War and Navy Departments for the regular session of Congress, so that all necessary information might be available if the emergency arose.

As yet there are no intimations that the president has fixed any definite time for submitting the program of national defense to Congress but his purpose, it is said, is to map out comprehensive plans so that no time will be lost should he decide to call a special session.

President Wilson himself already has collected much data on the subject. Secretary Garrison has been at work steadily with members of the army general staff for several weeks, planning a general military policy. The Navy also, has been occupied in secret with emergency preparations.

The delicacy of the international affairs brought these facts to light, and officials admitted today that for the next few weeks the question of national defense will be a foremost one.

It is said to be the intention of the army general staff to create a reserve army of five hundred thousand men. It is understood that the navy board will ask Congress for 39 submarines and possibly 50.

TO CONTEND FOR RIGHTS AS NEUTRAL AT ANY COST

Wilson's Warning to Germany.

NEW NOTE MADE PUBLIC

Another Attack on American Life Will Be Held Unfriendly.

SHARP SENTENCES IN MESSAGE

Contention For American Rights on the High Seas Made to Apply Equally to Great Britain as Well as to Germany — Note Invites the Co-operation of the Imperial German Government in the Endeavor to Obtain Freedom of the Seas—Full Text of the Latest Communication to Berlin.

Washington, July 24.—The note presented at the German foreign office by Ambassador Gerard, as viewed in Washington, means that another submarine attack on American life will result in a break between Germany and the United States.

The climax of President Wilson's warning to Germany in regard to the rights of Americans comes in the final sentence of his note, as follows: "Friendship itself prompts the United States government to say to the imperial German government that repetition by the commanders of German naval vessels of acts in contravention of those rights must be regarded by the government of the United States when they affect American citizens as deliberately unfriendly."

President Wilson also notifies Germany that the United States will contend for its rights as a neutral "without compromise and at any cost." Practices of the German naval forces, such as have been protested by this government, if persisted in, will constitute, he says, "an unpardonable offense against the sovereignty of any neutral nation affected."

Great Britain Included. As against these severe statements there is a feature of the note which is expected to go far toward allaying the deep anti-American feeling that is likely to be aroused in Germany. The president's warning that the United States will contend for American rights on the high seas, "without compromise and at any cost," is made to apply equally to Great Britain as well as to Germany. These rights will be protected "from whatever quarter violated," is the way Mr. Wilson puts it.

There is no doubt that this will be regarded, both in Germany and in the United States, as a promise on the part of this government to deal as vigorously and insistently with British violation of neutral rights on the high seas as with Germany's acts.

It often has been asserted that could the German government and people be convinced that the United States was sincerely endeavoring only to assert its rights and not to favor the allies as against Germany, much of the resentment caused by the submarine issue would instantly disappear. This expression was deliberately written into the note with this phase of the German attitude in mind.

There is still another feature of the note in which the German government may, if it chooses to do so, find some cause for gratification. The president in two paragraphs written by his own hand, adverts to the remarks of the German note of July 8, about the mutual interests of the two governments in "the freedom of the seas," and opens the way to Germany to prove the sincerity of her statement that she really desires law to reign supreme during this war.

Seeks Co-operation. Declaring that both governments are contending for the freedom of the seas, the note invites the practical co-operation of the German government at this time, "when co-operation may accomplish most." The president not only echoes the expressed wish of Germany that this object may be accomplished during the present war, but also asserts that it can be attained. The United States, it is declared, holds itself ready to act as the common friend of the belligerents' interests in this case.

It was apparent that this reference in the president's note to the freedom of the seas left a loophole for another note by Germany, but it was equally apparent that further discussion, even along this new line, will be impossible unless Germany refrains from committing any more offenses against American life on the high seas. In other words, President Wilson has offered Germany a means of escape from the present embarrassing situation, provided she holds in check her submarine operations pending the exchanges.

The effect of the president's note, as viewed here, is to leave it absolutely within the power of Germany to determine whether or not a break shall come. The expressions in the note apparently make it impossible for the United States to submit to another submarine attack without acting. What form that action would take the president and his advisers have not determined as yet. The first step probably would be a severing of diplomatic relations.

THE NOTE IN FULL

The Secretary of State to Ambassador Gerard:

Department of State, Washington, July 21, 1915.

You are instructed to deliver textually the following note to the minister for foreign affairs:

The note of the Imperial German government dated the 8th of July, 1915, has received the careful consideration of the government of the United States, and it regrets to be obliged to say that it has found it very unsatisfactory because it fails to meet the real differences between the two governments and indicates no way in which the accepted principles of law and humanity may be applied in the grave matter in controversy, but proposes on the contrary, arrangements for a partial suspension of those principles, which virtually set them aside.

The government of the United States notes with satisfaction that the Imperial German government recognizes without reservation the validity of the principles insisted on in the several communications which this government has addressed to the Imperial German government, with regard to its announcement of a war zone and the use of submarines against merchantmen on the high seas—the principle that the high seas are free, that the character and cargo of merchantmen must first be ascertained before she can lawfully be seized and destroyed and that the lives of noncombatants may in no case be put in jeopardy unless the vessel resists or seeks to escape after being summoned to submit to examination, for a belligerent act of retaliation in per se an act beyond the law and the defense of an act as retaliatory is an admission that it is illegal.

Note Disappointing. The government of the United States, however, is keenly disappointed to find that the Imperial German government regards itself as in large degree exempt from the obligation to observe these principles even where neutral vessels are concerned, by what it believes the policy and practice of the government of Great Britain to be in the present war with regard to neutral commerce. The Imperial German government will readily understand that the government of the United States cannot discuss the policy of the government of Great Britain with regard to neutral trade except with that government itself, and that it must regard the conduct of other belligerent governments as irrelevant to any discussion with the Imperial German government of what this government regards as grave and unjustifiable violations of the rights of American citizens by German naval commanders.

Illegal and inhuman acts, however justifiable they may be thought to be against an enemy who is believed to have acted in contravention of law and humanity, are manifestly indefensible when they deprive neutrals of their acknowledged rights, particularly when they violate the right to life itself. If a belligerent can not retaliate against an enemy without injuring the lives of neutrals as well as their property, humanity, as well as justice and a due regard for the dignity of neutral powers, should dictate that the practice be discontinued. If persisted in, it would in such circumstances constitute an unpardonable offense against the sovereignty of the neutral nation affected.

No Compromise. The government of the United States is not unmindful of the extraordinary conditions created by this war or of the radical alterations of circumstance and method of attack produced by the use of instrumentalities of naval warfare which the nations of the world can not have had in view when the existing rules of international law were formulated, and it is ready to make every reasonable allowance for these novel and unexpected aspects of war at sea, but it can not consent to abate any essential or fundamental right of its people because of a mere alteration of circumstance. The rights of neutrals in time of war are based upon principle, not upon expediency, and the principles are immutable. It is the duty and obligation of belligerents to find a way to adapt the new circumstances to them.

The events of the past two months have clearly indicated that it is possible and practicable to conduct such submarine operations as have characterized the activity of the Imperial German naval commanders within the so-called war zone in substantial accord with the accepted practices of regulated warfare. The whole world has looked with interest and increasing satisfaction at the demonstration of that possibility by German naval commanders. It is manifestly possible, therefore, to lift the whole practice of submarine attack above the criticism which it has aroused and remove the chief causes of offense.

In view of the admission of illegality made by the Imperial government when it pleaded the right of retaliation in defense of its acts, and in view of the manifest possibility of conforming to the established rules of naval warfare, the government of the United States can not believe that the Imperial government will longer refrain from disavowing the wanton act of its naval commander in sinking the Lusitania or from offering reparation for the American lives lost, so far as reparation can be made for a needless destruction of life by an illegal act.

Climax of Note. The government of the United States, while not indifferent to the friendly spirit in which it is made can not accept the suggestion of the Imperial German government that certain vessels be designated and agreed upon which shall be free on the seas now illegally proscribed. The very agreement would, by implication, subject our vessels to illegal attack and would be a curtailment, and, therefore, an abandonment of the principles for which this government contends, and which in times of calmer counsels every nation would concede as of course.

The government of the United States and the Imperial German government, which are contending for the same great object, have long stood together in urging the very principles upon which the government of the United States now so solemnly insists. They are both contending for the freedom of the seas. The government of the United States will continue to contend for that freedom, from whatever quarter violated, without compromise and at any cost. It invites the practical co-operation of the Imperial German government at this time when co-operation may accomplish most, and this great common object be most strikingly and effectively achieved.

The Imperial German government expresses the hope that this object may be in some measure accomplished even before the present war ends. It can be. The government of the United States not only feels obliged to insist upon it by whomsoever violated or ignored in the protection of its own citizens, but is also deeply interested in seeing it made practicable between the belligerents themselves, and holds itself ready at any time to act as the common friend who may be privileged to suggest a way. In the meantime the very value which his government friendship sets upon the long and unbroken friendship between the people and government of the United States and the people and government of the German nation impels it to press very solemnly upon the Imperial German government the necessity for a scrupulous observance of neutral rights in this critical matter. Friendship itself prompts it to say to the Imperial government that repetition by the commanders of German naval vessels of acts in contravention of those rights must be regarded by the government of the United States when they affect American citizens as deliberately unfriendly.

Rome, July 24. — Further progress by the Italian forces now closing in from three sides on the great Austrian fortress at Goritz is reported in the latest official statement from General Cadorna. Alpine troops who captured the summit and slopes of Monte Nero north of Tolmino, several weeks ago, have advanced southward on the left or eastern bank of the Isonzo to effect a junction with the Italian advance guards proceeding from Plava, where they have crossed the Isonzo to attack Goritz from the rear. The sixth day of the battle on the Carso plateau, the main defense of Goritz and the road to Trieste, finds the Italians in possession of strong positions which they are holding against desperate attacks on the part of the Austrians.

BECKER MAKES LAST ATTEMPT

New York, July 24.—Charles Becker's last struggle for life was begun when an application was made before Justice Philbin in the supreme court for a new trial for the man condemned to die next Wednesday. The basis of the application is newly discovered evidence, and one of the features of the application is that Becker's counsel offer to have Becker himself brought from Sing Sing to undergo a cross-examination on the newly discovered features of the defense. Justice Philbin signed an order upon the district attorney to show cause why the new trial should not be granted. The order is returnable Monday.

Sheriff and Deputies Attacked at Bayonne.

NEW APPEAL MADE FOR TROOPS

County Officials Believe Men in Uniform Would Overawe the Mob. Governor of Opinion That Local Police Can Control Situation—Postponement of Payday Causes Flurry. Progress of the Strike.

New York, July 24.—A second appeal to Governor Fielder of New Jersey to send the state militia to handle the strikers of the Standard Oil and Tidewater Oil plants in Bayonne was made by Sheriff Kinkead of Hudson county.

That request was made by telephone after the sheriff, who himself has added to his duty of seeking to protect life and property the work of trying to mediate between the strikers and the companies, had been attacked by the strikers.

For more than an hour the sheriff and five of his deputies were the object of a hail of bricks and bullets. Mr. Kinkead was hit several times by stones, and three revolver shots were fired in his direction. The sheriff and his deputies were surrounded on four sides by strikers, and so fierce was the attack that it was necessary to call for the police reserves. This attack on the sheriff was made after about fifty special aides sworn in specially to guard the oil works had been sent scurrying to cover.

Governor Fielder is of the opinion that the sheriff and local police can control the situation. The sheriff claims, in support of his desire for the presence of the militia, that the foreigners respect only men in uniform and they are infuriated at the sight of deputy sheriffs or guards carrying guns.

The only flurry besides the rioting occurred when the strikers made a demand on Sheriff Kinkead for their wages, it being the regular payday at the plants. When the strikers were told they would not be paid until Mon-

The Chautauqua

The summer chautauqua fever seems to be about the most contagious fever on record, in these days of all kinds of fever breaking toxins, and every village of any size and ambition is clamoring for its place on the chautauqua circuit.

The summer tourists, their name legion now that everybody who does not own an auto has some generous friend who does, have for weeks seen chautauqua pennants waving over the streets upon entering almost every village; these banners telling their tale of a chautauqua either past, present or to come.

It is certainly indicative of a broadening culture, when people in every community, in the heated summer season, often in a time that makes heavy demands upon busy people, are so interested in the uplifting class of entertainments which usually make up the chautauqua programs.

The second chautauqua season of Washington C. H. closed last night, and in its wake follows the verdict that it was eminently satisfactory, drawing crowds of people and sending them away satisfied.

It was throughout a strong course, giving an opportunity to hear splendid music, fine lectures, novelty programs and unusual presentations—such entertainment as is usually not heard throughout the season, crowded into one short week.

The real purpose of the chautauqua has always been to offer moral and intellectual uplift in the form of entertainment that will also prove enjoyable.

The financial success of the first chautauqua in this city was hazardous and the undertaking of the 1915 chautauqua involved some element of risk along these lines, but guarantors stepped forward and those who took the initiative and the risk, now have the satisfaction of knowing that the second chautauqua season was a big success—a success in large attendance, in pleased patrons and also financially.

The chautauqua was high class throughout.

Withal that the people responded so well it was surprising to the local management that there seemed to be a tardiness on the part of many in subscribing for tickets for the season of 1916. This was attributed by no means to any lack of interest or satisfaction in the chautauqua just closing, but rather to a natural reluctance in regard to plans so far ahead.

But it is necessary in order to insure a successful chautauqua to make plans ahead, and the active promoters are compelled to ask the assistance of the people in advance.

It is only another of those many good things of life which mean some venture and some unselfish effort if they are brought to successful completion.

Government and Destinies of a Nation Are Safest In the Hands of Its Industrial Workers

By HUDSON MAXIM, Noted Inventor

THE private industries of a country are the greatest stabilizers of peace. The great bandit nations of history have never been industrial nations. The robber has never been a worker. The government and destinies of a nation are safest in the hands of its workers.

WHEN A NONINDUSTRIAL PEOPLE BECOME CONQUERORS THEY BECOME DESTROYERS. ON THE CONTRARY, WHEN AN INDUSTRIAL PEOPLE BECOME CONQUERORS THEY BECOME UPBUILDERS AND CIVILIZERS.

Nothing could be more suicidal than for this country to nationalize the manufacture of armaments and munitions of war, for if this were done the supreme means, the indispensable means of defending the nation in time of war, would be rendered unavailable.

If it be the hope of the pacifists to limit the production of armaments by nationalizing the manufacture of them they would exactly defeat their purpose by such nationalization, for the government would then be obliged either to discharge its skilled labor and dismantle its plants or to go into and continue the manufacture of war munitions on a most stupendous scale, FOR THE GOVERNMENT PLANTS COULD NOT BE EMPLOYED IN TIMES OF PEACE FOR THE MANUFACTURE OF OTHER MATERIALS, AS ARE PRIVATE PLANTS.

The click of a reel and the swish of a line
And the thrill of a bending rod,
These are the joys in the dreams of mine
Away from the Haunts of Plod,
A few brief days with myself off there
To think of the things worth while,
To bathe my soul in a purer air
And live in a simple style.

And anchor splash in a favorite spot
And the fresh wind in my face,
What matters it whether they bite or not,
I am out of the grinding race.
I am once more on a laughing stream
From the sham of pride I'm free,
I am what I am as I sit and dream,
I am knowing a day with me.

A string of fish and a day well spent,
And a mind washed clean of hate,
A sense of holy and sweet content
Are the joys that I now await.
For to roam the woods or to whip a stream
Is to turn from the Haunts of Plod
And dwell where all things are what they seem
And read from the books of God.

A GROTESQUE BIRD

The Tufted Puffin Is the Joke of the Arctic Seas.

TO LOOK AT HIM IS TO LAUGH.

This Curious Creature Is Silent, Tranquil and Droll, With an Air of Profound Gravity and Spends His Winters Roaming Over the Ocean.

It is a curious fact that the far north and the far south each has a sea bird peculiar to itself, and in both cases these birds, although unlike one another in general appearance, are among the oddest looking members of the bird family that the world contains. The characteristic bird of the antarctic regions is the penguin, whose strutting companies, gathered on an icy shore, look like assemblages of little men, in long tailed black coats and spotless white waistcoats, waiting to sit down at ceremonious dinner.

The characteristic bird of the arctic regions is the auk, a thick set, awkward creature fond of fishing, like the penguin. The largest member of the family, the "great auk," or "gare fowl" has been driven into extinction within historic times. Another member, which the Audubon societies are trying to protect, is the queer looking, laughter exciting, and yet very grave and earnest native citizen of the north Pacific shores and islands, called the tufted puffin.

When the tufted puffin is looking his best (which is, of course, during the courting season) he wears a big red beak and a white mask, through which his green, red rimmed eyes gleam strangely, and shows a pair of bright vermilion legs and feet. From the top of his mask, on one side over the ear, curls a long golden white "feather horn." It seems that no description is able to convey the ludicrous impression which these birds make upon the beholder. Sailors seeing them for the first time break into guffaws of laughter. They call them "sea parrots" and on account of their drolly grave manners they have also been nicknamed "Quakers."

Says William Leon Dawson: "It is difficult to exaggerate the gravity of these tranquil birds, always absolutely silent, save that when caught and harassed, they may emit a low, hoarse groan. They spend much time standing demurely at the entrances of their burrows, their little plumes nodding like tassels on so many caps."

Like all the auks, the puffins are especially remarkable for the great size of their beaks and the changes which their heads undergo at the breeding season. Some of the horny plates of the big beak fall away at the end of the season, the white mask on the face, together with its nodding plumes, disappears, the red eyelids fade and the whole head becomes blackish.

Naturalists are a little puzzled to account for the size and stoutness of the puffin's beak. If the bird were fond of clams its beak might be of use as a shell breaker, but it seems not to be employed in that way. Neither is it used to dig the tunnels or burrows that the bird forms for its nest in the hard soil of sea fronting cliffs. These are excavated to a depth of three or four feet, and apparently the only tools used are the sharp palled claws.

In some places it is estimated that several thousand burrows exist on a single acre of sloping shore. The rabbits and puffins engage in a lively competition for the possession of burrows on the Farallones islands, but the big, pyramid pointed beak gives easy victory in these contests. Mr. Dawson says a frightened rabbit will sometimes plunge hastily into a burrow without stopping to consider to whom it belongs, and when he comes out again, with more haste than ever, he is a subject for laughter.

The natives of the north Pacific islands depend largely upon puffins for both food and clothing. The Aleutian "parkas," or feather coats, are made of the skins of puffins, with the feather side turned inward. Forty-five or fifty skins sewed firmly together make a garment which is said to be nearly impervious to cold. The birds are often caught in flight by means of nets at the end of poles handled like butterfly nets. Unlike birds that are more skillful and agile on the wing, the puffins fly straight ahead and are unable to dodge quickly.

Strange as the statement may appear the puffins, like the auks generally, spend the winter at sea. At that season they are to be seen on land only when driven ashore by some resistless tempest, which strews the beaches with their battered forms, many dead and many hopelessly lamed. With the advance of spring and summer they approach the shores where they are accustomed to breed, and then the remarkable changes of their colors, form and plumage that have been already described begin to take place.—Garrett P. Serviss in Spokane Spokesman-Review.

Beggars of Costa Rica.

One day a week the beggars of Costa Rica are privileged characters—that is, on Tuesday they are allowed to beg from shop to shop. It is the custom for business houses to prepare for the weekly visit of the mendicants and to hand over to them small coins or articles of little value. In some instances where merchandise is given away the beggars peddle it about the poorer quarters and so earn a few cents apiece.

CONTRACT IS SIGNED FOR CHAUTAUQUA NEXT SEASON

Nearly 650 Tickets Pledged and Treat for Next Year Is Assured — Senator Wm. S. Kenyon, in Notable Lecture, Closes Most Successful Chautauqua Last Night—Patrons Are Highly Pleased.

United States Senator William S. Kenyon, of Iowa, brought the chautauqua to a close Friday night, after a week of genuine treats for all who attended the numerous sessions of the chautauqua. Senator Kenyon's lecture was one of the big numbers of the entire course, and he not only held the close attention of his auditors, but made them see things his way.

When the evening session opened 25 tickets remained to be pledged before the contract would be turned over to the Coit-Alber company, and within a short time the number had exceeded the 600 mark, and the contract for a chautauqua next year was placed in the hands of the bureau representative, amid an outburst of applause.

The L. A. C. Women's Orchestra furnished the forepart of the evening's program, rendering a program which proved popular to lovers of light music and specialties.

Senator Kenyon, in opening his address, stated that this city held peculiar interest for him because it was at one time the home of, and now the resting place of Capt. Joseph Yeoman, whom, he said, had been his ideal in life when he was a young man; that Capt. Yeoman had given him the fighting spirit and training which had been of such great benefit to him in his work. He praised Capt. Yeoman and stated that for several years Capt. Yeoman and himself were partners in Iowa.

Senator Kenyon proved himself an apostle of economy in conducting the national government, pointing out the enormous expenditures which have been made for a great many years, and which are simply thrown away upon almost worthless projects.

The public buildings graft, franking privilege, navy yards, garden seed distribution, and the rivers and harbors bills are the chief forms of "graft" used in squandering the tax payers' money, he announced, and then gave statistics substantiating his every claim.

He derided the seed distribution "graft" saying it was like sending cheap cigars out to get votes. He urged the people to insist that a federal dollar do the same work as a private dollar. Speaking of the moral wave which has swept into National legislation in recent years he expressed himself as glad to see it and in the same breath he advocated women suffrage and a dry nation. He urged more Christian men to enter politics for the good to be accomplished.

The latter part of his address was filled to overflowing with patriotism of the right kind. He urged everyone to keep their heads during the present crisis; to stand firmly behind President Wilson, whom, he said, was entitled to the prayers and the support of every loyal American citizen, regardless of party affiliations.

"I have seen the grave face of Woodrow Wilson and noted the furrowed and worn expression there; I know something of the great burden of responsibility under which he labors, and the mighty strain upon him—the man who is guiding the destinies of the greatest people on earth," said Senator Kenyon.

He expressed himself as a firm believer in Providence shaping the destinies of nations and the lives of men.

"There is just as much patriotism in the hearts of American citizens now as when the call to arms came in '61," he continued. A proper navy and adequate army was advocated.

In closing he expressed confidence in the future of the United States, which he believed would be the greatest of any nation under the sun.

DOUSE GLIMMER OR PAY A FINE; HOW IT'S DONE

The new "dimmer ordinance" requiring that all brilliant automobile lamps be dimmed while running on the thoroughfares of the city, is now in effect, and a fine is provided by the ordinance as punishment for failure to observe the mandate.

The dimming ordinance was introduced in order to prevent auto lights blinding the drivers of other vehicles, as is the case at the present time. When the brilliant light pours into the eyes of the driver of another machine or other vehicle, it blinds the driver so that he trusts to luck until the blinding light is passed, rendering danger of accidents very great.

Many inquiries have arisen as to methods used in dimming the lights and the following methods have just been announced by the Safety Director of Cincinnati, and could be applied in this city as well as in Cincinnati, it is believed:

"All headlights on all vehicles must have full half of lamp in front of light darkened by painting with some opaque pigment or covered with an opaque hood. For acetylene lights, darkening the upper half will be deemed a compliance with the ordinance."

BADGES FOR D. T. CLUB COMMITTEE

Mayor Coffey Saturday morning received from the Ohio State Journal five badges, with the request that they be worn by the committee which is to meet the automobile boosters on their arrival here Tuesday afternoon.

AUTOS ASSEMBLE AT ONE O'CLOCK FOR GREENFIELD

Automobiles bearing members of the men's Bible classes of the various churches in this city will assemble in front of the court house on Court street, at one o'clock, prompt, Sunday afternoon for the trip to Greenfield.

Indications are that there will be a large number of men from this city who will attend the big meeting—the first of its kind ever held in Ohio, and profound interest is manifested in the event.

Final arrangements for the trip will be made at the sessions of the various classes tomorrow morning. In all the classes from two-score places have been invited, and most of them have responded with the assurance that large delegations will be sent. There is no charge of admission for the meeting.

The following article from the Chillicothe Gazette gives a fair idea of the magnitude of the meeting:

"From all indications, Chillicothe is going to send a large delegation of men to the big rally of Men's Bible Classes at Greenfield, on next Sunday afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock, at which rally there will be delegations from all towns within a radius of twenty-five miles of Greenfield. Delegations from practically every church in the city will go to the big get-together meeting. It is planned to make the trip by auto and it is probable that there will be a score or more of autos leave the city Sunday, loaded with enthusiastic bible students and persons interested in bible work."

MOLECULES AND HEAT.

Why Hot Water Dissolves Most Substances Quicker Than Cold.
Most housewives know that sugar will dissolve far more quickly in hot water than in cold, but very few know that salt will dissolve in cold water just as quickly as when the water is boiling. In this salt is somewhat of an exception, for most substances dissolve much more easily when water is hot.

The reason for this was a mystery in the middle ages, and it is only since the modern knowledge of molecules that it could be explained.

Heat is nothing more nor less than an increase in the speed with which the molecules are revolving. This is easily seen in molasses. When very cold it will hardly flow at all, when warmed it will pour slowly, but when boiling hot it will pour in a thin sirup almost as liquid as milk. In the same way boiling water is more liquid than cold water.

As dissolving a piece of sugar means that the sugar enters into the tiny spaces between the molecules of the water, the more quickly they are moving the easier it is for the sugar to get it. For, it must be remembered, you can fill a glass to a certain level, and after that put in two, three or even four lumps of sugar and the glass will be no fuller than before.

The reason for this is shown by merely thinking of the process on a large scale. Suppose a bowl were filled full of marbles. You could pour a lot of bird shot into it without making the marbles rise any higher in the bowl. The shot would be filling in all the little cracks between the marbles, and if you stirred the marbles slowly the shot would little by little find its place. That is like the sugar in cold water.

But if the marbles were being whirled around rapidly the shot would rapidly fill every place and the bowl would be full of shot. Yet the marbles would not be any higher in the bowl. Then, after all that, you could pour water into the bowl and it would get into the small spaces between the round shot, and still the marbles would not be any higher in the bowl.

It is in this way that substances which have been dissolved find their way into the liquids into which they have been dissolved.—New York American.

Naming a City.

From the Cleveland Plain Dealer we learn that the modern spelling of the name of the city is due to the error of a type manufacturer who sent to the Cleveland Herald, in 1831, a new set of type which was too "fat," as printers say. In other words, too wide to allow the heading of the paper to be spelled in the old and correct way. As the correction of the mistake was a matter of about ten weeks, so slow were the transportation facilities of those days, the printer suggested that the first "a" be left out of the name. It was done, and thus the town received a new name.

BUILDING OF TEMPORARY CHURCH IS AUTHORIZED

Congregation of St. Andrews to Erect Portable Steel Structure on Market Street—Contract Let and Work to Begin at Once.

At a meeting of the executive board of St. Andrews Episcopal Mission Saturday morning, plans were submitted and approved and Mr. Wm. Mackey, of Columbus, architect and builder, was authorized to go ahead with the construction of a temporary church building on West Market street on the lot adjoining the Burnett building. The contract calls for the completion of the building by August 25.

The building will be of the portable kind and the material chiefly of steel. It is expected that the building will be erected and ready for occupancy in a month. The work of construction will begin immediately.

The dimensions of the building will be 57 feet long by 27 feet wide and one story in height. There will be a vestibule 6x6 feet in front; choir room in rear and main auditorium 27x39 feet, seating capacity 100. The building will be painted blue-gray inside and outside.

The contractor makes a specialty of this sort of building and will lose no time in carrying out the plans. The rooms which have been occupied by the mission in the Y. M. C. A. annex are to be converted to the use of the Y. M. C. A. junior department.

TEUTONS ASSAULT FIERCELY

Germans Assail Russian Armies Defending the City.

PROGRESS CLAIMED BY BERLIN

Not Expected That Decisive Action on Any of the Eastern Fronts Will Be Fought For a Few Days Yet—Russians to Make Every Effort to Hold Present Positions—Operations Elsewhere in the War Zone.

London, July 24. — Late dispatches from the eastern front state that the Austrians and Germans are pushing their great attacks against the Russian armies defending Warsaw with undiminished energy and that at some points progress has been made.

The Teutonic forces are operating through country which the retreating troops have laid waste and what roads there are are little suited for the movement of the heavy artillery which is necessary for the bombardment of the fortresses that bar their way. It is not expected, therefore, that decisive actions on any of the fronts will be fought for a few days yet, although the battle between the Vistula and the Bug rivers, where German Field Marshal Von Mackensen's army is advancing toward the Lublin-Cholm railroad, has about reached the climax. Here, according to the German official communication, the Germans have succeeded in breaking the obstinate resistance of the Russians at several points and forced them to retreat. The Russians, however, have had lots of time to prepare a series of positions, and it is believed that they will make every effort to hold them until, if it becomes necessary, their army is able to retire from Warsaw.

To the south of Warsaw, in front of the fortress of Ivangorod, the Russians have retired to the Vistula river, which, with its forts and a lack of bridges, it is believed, must form a barrier which the Austrians and Germans will find it difficult to overcome. The northern German army under Field Marshal Von Hindenburg also is reported to have made progress, but it is said that it has not yet been able to cross the Narew river, another natural defense of the Russian triangle behind the Polish capital.

In fact, all along this front the Russians have resumed their counter attacks from the fortress of Novogeorgievsk, but these, according to the German accounts, failed in their purpose.

severe fighting is still going on in the Argonne and in the Vosges on the western battle front, but without bringing any very material changes in the positions of the opposing armies. It is reported unofficially that the Germans are massing troops at St. Mihiel for a more extended offensive. That the Germans will attempt an offensive here is considered by the military observers as quite likely, as they assert that the recent activity of the German crown prince's army shows that they are hoping to weaken the French hold on Verdun.

TROLLEY CAR CRASHES INTO STEAM ROLLER

Six Persons Injured In An Accident Near Fostoria.

Fostoria, O., July 24. — Six persons were injured, two seriously, when a northbound T. F. and F car struck a steam roller belonging to a road builder, six miles north of the city, near Longley. The car was manned by Motorman Judd Gray and Conductor A. J. Fuller, both of Findlay. The roller was owned by Bert Foos, a contractor of Fostoria, and operated by Carl Derwestern of Fostoria. The seriously injured are Motorman Gray and Derwestern. The roller, weighing three tons, was hurled forty feet, and the car turned over on its side in the ditch. Twelve passengers were in the car, all of whom escaped by crawling through a rear window.

The boiler of the steam roller burst, enveloping the track in steam and setting fire to part of the wreckage.

WOODS THAT SINK.

There Are Many Varieties That Will Not Float in Water.

That wood floats is such a commonplace fact in our lives that we hardly give it any thought. If we lived in tropical climates we would learn to distinguish between woods that float and woods that do not float. Many of the woods of Mexico and South America are so heavy even when perfectly dry that they will sink in water, notably legnum vitae, which is the wood commonly used for bowling balls.

Among our common native woods there are several that will not float when green. The cypress of the south is often girdled a year before it is cut so that it will die and dry while standing, thus making it possible to float the logs to the mill.

The reason why some woods float is not because the substance of which they are made is lighter than water, but because the cavities in the cells are so large that the air in them buoys up the wood. The material cellulose which composes the greater part of the cell wall is heavier than water, so that if the air in the cells is replaced by water the wood will sink. This is just what happens to wood which has been in water for a long time and has become "waterlogged."

It is the large water content of the heartwood of freshly felled oaks and hickories and of the sapwood of certain conifers that causes these woods to sink, for when dry they will float.

Lignum vitae and other heavy tropical woods, even when dry, sink because most of the cell cavities are so small compared to the thick cell walls that the air in the cavities is not enough to float the wood.

FIRING A TORPEDO.

How a Submarine Flings Forth the Deadly Projectile.

When a submarine sights a hostile vessel a group of sailors quickly cluster round the torpedo tube. This is loaded with its instrument of destruction, and behind it a powder charge is inserted in a receptacle and the trigger controlling the firing mechanism cocked ready.

A gunner proceeds to estimate the speed of the target and its course through glasses. He then adjusts a device known as the "director," which by means of dials tells him when the tube is pointing in the right direction to launch the torpedo true to its mark. At a distance of about 3,000 yards the gunner presses a button, the powder charge explodes and a pressure of fifty pounds per square inch is put upon the rear end of the torpedo.

The well greased projectile is forced through the open end of the tube at a rate of thirty-five feet per second, and as it takes the water in a long flat dive the twin propellers in the rear set to work. They are driven by an air pressure of 2,250 pounds, which sets the driving machinery in motion as the torpedo leaps from its tube.

A gyroscope steering gear prevents the torpedo from deviating from a straight path, and unless it is carelessly fired or its target quickly maneuvers out of the way the £500 projectile seldom misses its mark.—London Answers.

STUCK IN THE MUD.

That Was the Normal Condition in Chicago Village in 1833.

An elaborate series of descriptions of middle western road conditions is contained in Charles Cleaver's "History of Chicago From 1832 to 1892, Illustrating the Difficulties of the Route From New York to Chicago." In the village of Chicago in 1833, Cleaver tells us:

"Parties informed us that in the spring we would find it almost impossible to get around for the mud, a truth forcibly illustrated when a few months later I got into a wagon to go about one and a half miles northwest. It was with the greatest difficulty that two good horses could pull the empty wagon through the two feet of mud, and water across the prairie. . . . A year or two later I saw many teams stuck fast in the streets of the village."

"I remember once a stagecoach got mired in Clark street opposite the Sherman House, where it remained several days, with a board driven into the mud bearing this inscription, 'No bottom here.' I once saw a lady stuck in the mud in the middle of Randolph street. She was evidently in need of help, as every time she moved she sank deeper and deeper. An old gentleman from the country offered to help her, which had such an effect upon her modesty that with one desperate effort she drew her feet out minus her shoes."

Why You Sneeze.

There is more than one cause for sneezing, and persons may differ in their susceptibility to them. A bright light will cause some persons to sneeze, the pollen of certain plants will affect others, and most people are likely to sneeze in the presence of dust. Such sneezing is due to superficial irritation.

The sneeze caused by the effect of cold is different. It is an attempt of nature to cure you. She makes you sneeze for the same reason that she makes you shiver—to generate heat for warming the blood and preventing you from taking more cold—to help relieve the cold you have.

The sneezing from cold is not an act of the nose alone, this being merely the part of the body where it explodes. It is an act of the entire body during which every muscle gives a jump. The body is affected by a spasmodic effort to warm the entire system and throw off the cold.—Boston Herald.

Destiny.

Destiny is either the excuse men give for their errors or a humble supplement to their successes. Destiny reconciles a man to unpaid bills, the abuse of the proletariat, ingratitude and relatives, especially if they are his own.

A man who is making progress is thought—by himself—to control his own destiny. When he isn't making progress his destiny controls him.

Destiny is always at work. When it is not doing it is undoing. It has a star for a trademark which is recognized in every country in the world. It has made a great many see double.

Not everybody has a destiny. Some are comparatively happy.—Life.

A Natural Deficit.

"Do you find much change in the old town?" asked an interested friend of Colonel Sellemquick, the eminent promoter.

"Well, no," replied the colonel thoughtfully. "But then I scarcely expected any. You see, I got most of the local supply before I went away." —Richmond Times-Dispatch.

International Cartoon Co., N. Y.

After all, the Fourth of July is our "flag day," and the profuse display of the starchy banner on the anniversary of our independence made that also unmistakably our "patriotic day."

Several sections of the country report more June weddings in 1915 than last year. None, however, recalls as a reason for the increase the old saying, "It is as easy to support two as one."

BUCKS HOLD AN OUTING

Columbus, July 24. — The Buckeye Republican club is holding its annual outing today at Olentangy park. Thousands are in attendance. This afternoon Former Governor Myron T. Herrick, Ralph D. Cole and Albert Morrell of Cincinnati addressed the club and its guests. Speeches will be made this evening by Governor Willis and Former Senator Theodore Burton.

LIFE ON A SUBMARINE.
There Are No Comforts, and Sleep is Almost Impossible.
Speaking of life on a submarine, one of Uncle Sam's naval officers stationed on one of these under sea terrors says: "Every minute the men are in the submarine means the risk of pneumonia and tuberculosis. The entire inside of the boat sweats like a pitcher of ice water on a hot day. Before we are on it three hours our clothes are soaked, and they stay that way. We have absolutely no heat, which means that the boat is the temperature of the outside air. Sometimes we nearly freeze. The doctors say that the men on a submarine never sleep; they merely become unconscious for brief intervals. The air, the odors from the machinery, the constant vibration and the intense strain under which you labor make sleep an impossibility."
"In a storm, when we have to seal up, the air gets worse than anything you can imagine. There are eighteen men and two officers in one of our boats, and at any moment any one of the twenty may cause the death of all the rest. There is no room for mistakes. The space in which the men live is fifty feet long and about ten feet wide. I can stand upright if I pick my place, but most of the time my shoulders are bent. There are no bunks; we all spread our mattresses on an iron deck. The dining room consists of four electric hot plates. Nothing in the nature of a spark is allowed below decks, but we can heat up coffee on the hot plates and occasionally fry things. We can't smoke, and the vibration of the engines makes it impossible to read or even play cards, so when we are not working there's nothing for us to do but sit on the floor and look at each other."—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

Boogh Hoogh.
There was a young person called Hugh,
Who appeared most decidedly blugh;
He'd happened to fall
In love—that was all—
That caused him existence to rugh.

CULTIVATE RELIABILITY.
It is Always in Demand and Adds to a Man's Worth.
The demand for reliability never ceases. If you buy a piece of machinery you want it to be dependable. When you purchase new clothes you desire them to be durable. If you elect an official you require that he shall be trustworthy. When you take on an employee you inquire whether he can be relied on, as to his word, his work, his loyalty. It is so in all the relations of life. While there is much unreliability, you never hear of anybody seeking it or placing a premium upon it.
The reliable man is always spoken of in terms of praise. His friends boast that he can be depended upon to do a certain thing under a certain set of circumstances without variableness or shadow of turning. They say they can find him in the dark and can trust him then with the same faith as in the broad light of day. They refer to him as one whom you can tie to. They have no fears that he will either default or betray. He has all the steadiness and fidelity of a well trained plow horse. He may lack brilliance and finish. He may not be a genius. But as far as his abilities go he is as reliable as time itself, and thus he becomes more or less of an institution in the circle within which he moves and an anchorage for those dependent upon him in any way whatever.—Pittsburgh Gazette-Times.

Women Architects.
"I wonder why there are so few women architects?"
"Perhaps women are afraid they might be called designing creatures."

Becoming Faint.
Cook—The tea is quite exhausted, ma'am. Mistress—I noticed that it seemed very weak the last time.—Boston Globe.

He that always complains is never pitied.—German Proverb.

CHAUTAUQUA BALLOONS.
A real, genuine rubber toy balloon at 10c is on sale this week at Rodecker's News Stand. They delight the little folks and stand a lot of rough usage, as they are not the cheap street fair kind.

A letter from Los Angeles, Cal., to the P. F. Ortman Company from Valentine Hoppe, who, with his automobile party, is now in the west after a cross continental tour of a month's duration, outlines the trip and states that the members of the party are well and happy and enjoying the trip hugely.

The party visited many places of interest and experienced all sorts of weather and driving conditions. Among other places the tourists visited Pike's Peak, the Garden of the Gods, Cave of the Winds, Seven Falls, Cliff Dwellers of Pueblo, Stratton Park and the grave of Helen Hunt Jackson, all in Colorado, a number of Mexican villages near Santa Fe, the great Petrified Forest of Arizona, the cliff dwellers, Sunset Mountain, the Painted Desert and numerous caves, canyons, and lava beds in the vicinity of Flagstaff, Arizona, the Grand Canyon, and the great Death Valley of California.

At Greenville, Ill., the party met the Gossard party of this city; also on the way to California. In Kansas the party met a man named Wells, who was formerly of Fayette county and who kept in touch with Fayette county news. He knew the party was coming and was standing at the gate in front of his farmhouse awaiting its arrival.

The party left Washington on June 21. The letter adds: "We arrived in Los Angeles about 4:30 p. m., July 14, the speedometer reading 3,107 miles, without an adjustment of any kind on our car and with OHIO air in all the tires."

odist ball team for the scheduled Methodist-Christian game Friday evening resulted in the forfeiting of the game to the Christians.

It is said the Methodist team has disbanded. The Presbyterians and Wesley Chaplains will play Tuesday.

NOTABLE OCCASION IN NEIGHBORING TEMPLE

Washington Temple, Pythian Sisters, visited "Blooming Rose Temple" at Bloomingburg Thursday night, to put on the work and assist in the initiation of five candidates.

It was a most interesting occasion and representatives from the Jeffersonville and Madison Mills Temples, together with the stag, officers and other members of the local Temple to the number of 40, were given most hospitable entertainment by Blooming Rose Temple.

The work was most beautifully put on by Washington Temple in charge of Mrs. John W. Wilson. Most Excellent chief.

The five candidates initiated were Mrs. C. J. Noble, Mrs. Robert McCoy, Miss Myrtle Klever, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Eggleston. Mr. and Mrs. Eggleston took the work.

The evening wound up with a delightful social hour, during which refreshments were served.

RECEIVES DIPLOMA FROM STATE BOARD

Paul Hughey received from the State Board of Embalmer examiners, Saturday morning, his diploma in the course of funeral directing and embalming. Mr. Hughey took his course in this profession at Starling Medical College and passed the required examination before the State Board the last of June.

Temporarily Mr. Hughey will remain in this city, his plans in regard to a permanent location not yet being definitely decided.

TOURISTS ARE PLEASED WITH PLANS HERE

The State Journal Auto Carnival, which is scheduled to arrive in this city next Tuesday afternoon is steadily increasing in size, and a great number of machines have entered the tour and the first of the machines will reach this city shortly after four o'clock Tuesday afternoon, and remain one hour.

Arrangements are being made here to entertain the visitors at the Y. M. C. A. and virtually all business men are expected to be at the reception tendered the visitors.

Regarding the invitation to be the guests of the Dutch Treat Club while here, the State Journal of Saturday morning says:

"In mails of yesterday came letters of much interest to all those who contemplate being members of the carnival throng. For instance, Edward Fite, of Washington C. H. wrote to C. C. Jones, chairman of the general committee, as follows: "We have here in Washington C. H. an organization known as the Dutch Treat Club. It is composed of the business and professional men of our city. We meet each Thursday for luncheon at the Y. M. C. A. At our regular meeting this week a committee was appointed to arrange for the reception of our traveling carnival next week. We shall be very glad to extend whatever courtesy we can. Our Y. M. C. A. offers an ideal place for a reception."

"Certainly the ladies and gentlemen of the carnival party will be delighted to accept the hospitality of the Dutch Treaters while in Washington C. H., on Tuesday afternoon."

VERTICAL BINDER DRAWS BIG CROWDS

The new verticle wheat binder, perfected by a Xenian, was tried out in the presence of a large crowd, including a number of big corporation men who are said to be desirous of buying the patents covering the Clark Verticle Binder.

It is the object of the binder to bind the wheat while it is standing, so that no wheat will be lost by shattering. The machine promises to revolutionize wheat reaping.

UNION SERVICES

On Sunday night, at 7:30, the second of the summer union services will be held in the First Baptist church. Rev. Bowman Hostetler will be the speaker.

A Luxurious Poorhouse.

Morden college, Blackheath, is the most luxuriously equipped almshouse in existence. Admission is strictly limited to merchants who have fallen on evil times. Mere clerks are not eligible, candidates being required to prove that they have been in a large way of business for themselves. Each member of the college draws a yearly allowance of £110 and on admission receives £25 worth of furniture for his two rooms, unless he prefers to bring his own. There are well trained men servants, and to every three members one maid servant is allotted. Members must attend a certain number of chapel and be in by 11 o'clock at night if they come in at all, but there is no other restriction on their liberty, and they can go away for weeks at a time if they choose.—London Chronicle.

The Human Brain.

Our brains are seventy year clocks. The angel of life winds them up once for all, then closes the case and gives the key into the hand of the angel of the resurrection. Tick-tack, tick-tack, go the wheels of thought. Our will cannot stop them. They cannot stop themselves. Sleep cannot still them. Madness only makes them go faster. Death alone can break into the case, and, seizing the ever swinging pendulum which we call the heart, silence at last the clicking of the terrible escapement we have carried so long beneath our wrinkled foreheads.—Holmes.

A Strict Party Man.

"Do you promise to love, honor and cherish this woman?"

"Yes," said the politician. "Whatever the platform is, I subscribe to it."

Shouts of Laughter Quickly Change to Screams of Terror as Steamer Turns Over While at Wharf—Rescuers Find Victims Piled High in Cabins—Officers of Vessel Under Arrest and Federal Authorities Start Investigation—Work of Removing Bodies Continues and Latest Estimates Increase Appalling Totals—Near-Similar Accident Eight Years Ago

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, JULY 24. — AT 2:40 THIS AFTERNOON CORONER HOFFMAN ESTIMATED THE NUMBER OF DEAD AT 1300.

DEPUTY CHIEF OF POLICE SCHEULTER ESTIMATES THE DEAD AT 1700.

Chicago, July 24.—Probably 1200 persons were drowned in the Chicago river today by the capsizing, at the wharf, of the steamer Eastland.

Six hours after the accident the police had checked more than 600 bodies recovered, and estimates were that perhaps 1,200 men, women and children had perished. Others placed the number as even higher.

At two o'clock 679 bodies had been recovered from the wreck of the steamer Eastland. This number is the result of a tabulation of known dead at 10 morgues. Of these 505 were at an emergency Red Cross station in a warehouse. The count was announced by the physicians in charge.

Federal Judge Landis ordered a special grand jury investigation of the disaster. The jury will meet next Thursday.

Firemen, who chopped their way through the sides of the vessel, found bodies piled on one another like so many boxes of merchandise. Bodies were removed to downtown morgues in wagonloads. Sixty per cent of the dead are women.

Investigating officials leaned strongly toward the theory that the peculiar construction of the boat was responsible for the accident. The Eastland was equipped with water ballast, so that it could enter shallow ports and river mouths.

It was the theory of officials that most of the ballast had been forced from the tanks in anticipation of a heavy load today. The steamer was thus rendered top heavy, it was thought, and this, if a fact, would explain why she capsized so quickly.

The crowding of passengers to one side of the boat is supposed to have caused the tragedy, but authorities,

The Chicago Daily News says it is estimated that 1,000 people are either drowned or missing. At 9:40 more than 300 bodies had been recovered from the wreck. This statement was made by Dr. T. S. Carter, who examined the bodies.

An Associated Press man, who got by the guards on the Theodore Roosevelt, a rescue boat, counted 150 bodies in the cabin on that boat. Most of these were women.

The steamer had been chartered for the day by the Western Electric Company employees, who had planned an excursion to Michigan City, Ind. Passengers were crowded on the ship shortly before eight o'clock, the hour it was to leave, when the boat slowly listed toward the middle of the river.

It is said that there were 2,500 people on the steamer. When the boat started to tip the officers shouted warnings, but it was too late. The heavily loaded steamer continued to roll until the hawsers which held it to the dock snapped.

A moment later, amid the screams of passengers, the steamer turned over on its side, and floated out into the middle of the river.

Apparently scores of women and children in the cabin were drowned without being given a chance to escape. Hundreds of other passengers were able to climb on the side of the boat, which is above water, and were later taken off by rescuers.

Life preservers were cast into the river from the steamship Theodore Roosevelt, which was docked across the river, and scores of the Eastland's passengers clung to them until picked up by boats.

The city fire boats, police launches and life boats from nearby steamers in the river, rushed to the rescue. A hole was cut through the side of the lower deck by life savers and many bodies were taken out.

Some seven thousand tickets had been distributed for the excursion and five steamers chartered by the company. The Eastland was the first to receive passengers.

Hundreds, hurrying to the other boats, were halted by the screams of the Eastland victims. Mercantile concerns hurried motor trucks to the scene, laden with blankets to warm the living or cover the dead.

Pulmotors by the score were sent to the spot. Physicians, police, firemen, lifesavers and nurses were summoned.

The chief of the marine bureau of the customs office declared that the exact number of persons on the boat was 2,500, and the boat was not overloaded. He was present at the dock with two of his steamboat inspectors early this morning.

For the first two hours pulmotors were used, and attempts made to revive every person taken from the wreck. Then, as the hopelessness of saving later victims became apparent divers were sent down and bodies hauled out with ropes.

The Eastland nearly met similar accident eight years ago. Flags are at half mast and scenes similar to those enacted after the Iroquois fire disaster, in 1903, cast a gloom over the city.

The captain of the vessel said he did not know what caused the accident.

RUSSIANS LOSING GROUND
IN STRUGGLE ABOUT WARSAW

By Associated Press.

Berlin, July 24.—Bulletin.—The German army under command of General von Buelow has defeated the Russians in a battle near Shavli, according to an official statement.

The Germans, fighting toward Warsaw, have also stormed the fortresses of Rozan and Pultusk, and have forced a crossing of the Nerew river, the statement adds.

London, July 24.—From all sides except the east, Teutonic armies are continuing their concerted pressure on Warsaw, the fate of which still hangs in the balance.

Direct assaults upon the fortress protecting the city are weakening the defenses, according to the German claim.

They are hammering especially hard upon Ivangorod, where the Teutons' guns are declared to be playing on the railroad line which runs through Lublin and Chelm.

South of Lublin the battle still rages fiercely. No claim is made by any of the belligerents that a definite result has been achieved there.

Northward of the Polish capital, along the line of the Narew, Field Marshal von Hindenburg's forces are pressing hard upon the Russian bridgehead at Rosen.

Petrograd is silent as to the outcome.

Lady Russell in her volume "Swallowfield and Its Owners" points out that in 1820 the Berkshire estate came into the hands of Sir Henry Russell, who had been a friend of Dr. Johnson. It was at Russell's table that one day the doctor maintained that "no man loved labor, no man would work if he could help it." Reynolds objected and gave Pope for instance. But Pope's inspiration, said the doctor, "was the love of fame and not the love of labor." Leander swam the Hellespont, but that doesn't prove that he loved swimming."

WILSON CALLS
HIS WARCHIEFS

Formal Call for Reports as to Nation's Preparedness Asked By President, Who Is to Confer With Garrison and Daniels on Comprehensive Plans for National Defense.

By Associated Press.

Washington, July 24.—Formal announcement was made at the White House today that President Wilson, on his return to Washington, will confer with Secretaries Garrison and Daniels on a program for national defense.

The president has written to the heads of the War and Navy Departments for reports on the subject, pointing out the necessity for working out plans for increasing the efficiency of the military arms of the government.

The White House statement follows:

"The president has been considering every phase of the matter of national defense and intends immediately, on his return to Washington, to confer with the secretary of war and the secretary of the navy, his purpose being to procure information on which he can formulate a reasonable and practical program of national defense."

Although nothing was stated officially concerning the purpose of the government, it was hinted officially that with the dispatch of the emphatic note to Germany, the president had decided to hasten the reports and recommendations being prepared by the War and Navy Departments for the regular session of Congress, so that all necessary information might be available if the emergency arose.

As yet there are no intimations that the president has fixed any definite time for submitting the program of national defense to Congress but his purpose, it is said, is to map out comprehensive plans so that no time will be lost should he decide to call a special session.

President Wilson himself already has collected much data on the subject. Secretary Garrison has been at work steadily with members of the army general staff for several weeks, planning a general military policy. The Navy also, has been occupied in secret with emergency preparations.

The delicacy of the international affairs brought these facts to light, and officials admitted today that for the next few weeks the question of national defense will be a foremost one.

It is said to be the intention of the army general staff to create a reserve army of five hundred thousand men. It is understood that the navy board will ask Congress for 30 submarines and possibly 50.

TO CONTEND FOR RIGHTS AS NEUTRAL AT ANY COST

Wilson's Warning to Germany.

NEW NOTE MADE PUBLIC

Another Attack on American Life Will Be Held Unfriendly.

SHARP SENTENCES IN MESSAGE

Contention For American Rights on the High Seas Made to Apply Equally to Great Britain as Well as to Germany — Note Invites the Co-operation of the Imperial German Government in the Endeavor to Obtain Freedom of the Seas—Full Text of the Latest Communication to Berlin.

Washington, July 24.—The note presented at the German foreign office by Ambassador Gerard, as viewed in Washington, means that another submarine attack on American life will result in a break between Germany and the United States.

The climax of President Wilson's warning to Germany in regard to the rights of Americans comes in the final sentence of his note, as follows: "Friendship itself prompts the United States government to say to the Imperial German government that repetition by the commanders of German naval vessels of acts in contravention of those rights must be regarded by the government of the United States when they affect American citizens as deliberately unfriendly."

President Wilson also notifies Germany that the United States will contend for its rights as a neutral "without compromise and at any cost." Practices of the German naval forces, such as have been protested by this government, if persisted in, will constitute, he says, "an unpardonable offense against the sovereignty of any neutral nation affected."

Great Britain Included. As against these severe statements there is a feature of the note which is expected to go far toward allaying the deep anti-American feeling that is likely to be aroused in Germany. The president's warning that the United States will contend for American rights on the high seas, "without compromise and at any cost," is made to apply equally to Great Britain as well as to Germany. These rights will be protected "from whatever quarter violated," is the way Mr. Wilson puts it.

There is no doubt that this will be regarded, both in Germany and in the United States, as a promise on the part of this government to deal as vigorously and insistently with British violation of neutral rights on the high seas as with Germany's acts.

It often has been asserted that could the German government and people be convinced that the United States was sincerely endeavoring only to assert its rights and not to favor the allies as against Germany, much of the resentment caused by the submarine issue would instantly disappear. This expression was deliberately written into the note with this phase of the German attitude in mind.

There is still another feature of the note in which the German government may, if it chooses to do so, find some cause for gratification. The president in two paragraphs written by his own hand, adverts to the remarks of the German note of July 8, about the mutual interests of the two governments in "the freedom of the seas," and opens the way to Germany to prove the sincerity of her statement that she really desires law to reign supreme during this war.

Seeks Co-operation. Declaring that both governments are contending for the freedom of the seas, the note invites the practical co-operation of the German government at this time, "when co-operation may accomplish most." The president not only echoes the expressed wish of Germany that this object may be accomplished during the present war, but also asserts that it can be attained. The United States, it is declared, holds itself ready to act as the common friend of the belligerents' interests in this case.

It was apparent that this reference in the president's note to the freedom of the seas left a loophole for another note by Germany, but it was equally apparent that further discussion, even along this new line, will be impossible unless Germany refrains from committing any more offenses against American life on the high seas. In other words, President Wilson has offered Germany a means of escape from the present embarrassing situation, provided she holds in check her submarine operations pending the exchanges.

The effect of the president's note, as viewed here, is to leave it absolutely within the power of Germany to determine whether or not a break shall come. The expressions in the note apparently make it impossible for the United States to submit to another submarine attack without acting. What form that action would take the president and his advisers have not determined as yet. The first step probably would be a severing of diplomatic relations.

THE NOTE IN FULL

The Secretary of State to Ambassador Gerard.

Department of State, Washington, July 21, 1915. You are instructed to deliver textually the following note to the minister for foreign affairs:

The note of the Imperial German government dated the 8th of July, 1915, has received the careful consideration of the government of the United States, and it regrets to be obliged to say that it has found it very unsatisfactory because it fails to meet the real differences between the two governments and indicates no way in which the accepted principles of law and humanity may be applied in the grave matter in controversy, but proposes on the contrary, arrangements for a partial suspension of those principles, which virtually set them aside.

The government of the United States notes with satisfaction that the Imperial German government recognizes without reservation the validity of the principles insisted on in the several communications which this government has addressed to the Imperial German government, with regard to its announcement of a war zone and the use of submarines against merchantmen on the high seas—the principle that the high seas are free, that the character and cargo of merchantmen must first be ascertained before she can lawfully be seized or destroyed and that the lives of noncombatants may in no case be put in jeopardy unless the vessel refuses to submit to examination, for a belligerent act of retaliation is per se an act beyond the law and the defense of an act as retaliatory is an admission that it is illegal.

Note Disappointing. The government of the United States, however, is keenly disappointed to find that the Imperial German government regards itself as in large degree exempt from the obligation to observe these principles even where neutral vessels are concerned, by what it believes the policy and practice of the government of Great Britain to be in the present war with regard to neutral commerce. The Imperial German government will readily understand that the government of the United States can not discuss the policy of the government of Great Britain with regard to neutral trade except with that government itself, and that it must regard the conduct of other belligerent governments as irrelevant to any discussion with the Imperial German government of what this government regards as grave and unjustifiable violations of the rights of American citizens by German naval commanders.

Illegal and inhuman acts, however justifiable they may be thought to be against an enemy who is believed to have acted in contravention of law and humanity, are manifestly indefensible when they deprive neutrals of their acknowledged rights, particularly when they violate the right to life itself. If a belligerent can not retaliate against an enemy without injuring the lives of neutrals as well as their property, humanity, as well as justice and a due regard for the dignity of neutral powers, should dictate that the practice be discontinued. If persisted in, it would in such circumstance constitute an unpardonable offense against the sovereignty of the neutral nation affected.

No Compromise. The government of the United States is not unmindful of the extraordinary conditions created by this war or of the radical alterations of circumstance and method of attack produced by the use of instrumentalities of naval warfare which the nations of the world can not have had in view when the existing rules of international law were formulated, and it is ready to make every reasonable allowance for these novel and unexpected aspects of war at sea, but it can not consent to abate any essential or fundamental right of its people because of a mere alteration of circumstance. The rights of neutrals in time of war are based upon principle, not upon expediency, and the principles are immutable. It is the duty and obligation of belligerents to find a way to adapt the new circumstances to them.

The events of the past two months have clearly indicated that it is possible and practicable to conduct such submarine operations as have characterized the activity of the Imperial German naval commanders within the so-called war zone in substantial accord with the accepted practices of regulated warfare. The whole world has looked with interest and increasing satisfaction at the demonstration of that possibility by German naval commanders. It is manifestly possible, therefore, to lift the whole practice of submarine attack above the criticism which it has aroused and remove the chief causes of offense.

In view of the admission of illegality made by the Imperial government when it pleaded the right of retaliation in defense of its acts, and in view of the manifest possibility of conforming to the established rules of naval warfare, the government of the United States can not believe that the Imperial government will longer refrain from disavowing the war zone act of its naval commander in sinking the Lusitania or from offering reparation for the American lives lost, so far as reparation can be made for a needless destruction of life by an illegal act.

Climax of Note. The government of the United States, while not indifferent to the friendly spirit in which it is made can not accept the suggestion of the Imperial German government that certain vessels be designated and agreed upon which shall be free on the seas now illegally proscribed. The very agreement would, by implication, subject our vessels to illegal attack and would be a curtailment, and, therefore, an abandonment of the principles for which this government contends, and which in times of calmer counsels every nation would concede as of course.

The government of the United States and the Imperial German government, which are contending for the same great object, have long stood together in urging the very principles upon which the government of the United States now so solemnly insists. They are both contending for the freedom of the seas. The government of the United States will continue to contend for that freedom, from whatever quarter violated, without compromise and at any cost. It invites the practical co-operation of the Imperial German government at this time when co-operation may accomplish most, and this great common object be most strikingly and effectively achieved.

The Imperial German government expresses the hope that this object may be in some measure accomplished even before the present war ends. It can be the government of the United States not only feels obliged to insist upon it by whomsoever violated or ignored in the protection of its own citizens, but is also deeply interested in seeing it made practicable between the belligerents themselves, and holds itself ready at any time to act as the common friend who may be privileged to suggest a way. In the meantime the very value which his government sets upon the long and unbroken friendship between the people and government of the United States and the people and government of the German nation impels it to press very solemnly upon the Imperial German government the necessity for a scrupulous observance of neutral rights in this critical matter. Friendship itself prompts it to say to the Imperial German government that repetition by the commanders of German naval vessels of acts in contravention of those rights must be regarded by the government of the United States when they affect American citizens as deliberately unfriendly.

Justice Philbin signed an order upon the district attorney to show cause why the new trial should not be granted. The order is returnable Monday.

Sheriff and Deputies Attacked at Bayonne.

NEW APPEAL MADE FOR TROOPS

County Officials Believe Men in Uniform Would Overawe the Mobs. Governor of Opinion That Local Police Can Control Situation—Postponement of Payday Causes Flurry. Progress of the Strike.

New York, July 24.—A second appeal to Governor Fielder of New Jersey to send the state militia to handle the strikers of the Standard Oil and Tidewater Oil plants in Bayonne was made by Sheriff Kinkead of Hudson county.

That request was made by telephone after the sheriff, who himself has added to his duty of seeking to protect life and property the work of trying to mediate between the strikers and the companies, had been attacked by the strikers.

For more than an hour the sheriff and five of his deputies were the object of a hail of bricks and bullets. Mr. Kinkead was hit several times by stones, and three revolver shots were fired in his direction. The sheriff and his deputies were surrounded on four sides by strikers, and so fierce was the attack that it was necessary to call for the police reserves. This attack on the sheriff was made after about fifty special aides sworn in specially to guard the oil works had been sent scurrying to cover.

Governor Fielder is of the opinion that the sheriff and local police can control the situation. The sheriff claims, in support of his desire for the presence of the militia, that the foreigners respect only men in uniform and they are infuriated at the sight of deputy sheriffs or guards carrying guns.

The only flurry besides the rioting occurred when the strikers made a demand on Sheriff Kinkead for their wages, it being the regular payday at the plants. When the strikers were told they would not be paid until Monday, they became incensed and for a time threatened reprisals. The authorities thought it wise to defer paying the men, unless they were in dire distress, until Monday.

The Chautauqua

The summer chautauqua fever seems to be about the most contagious fever on record, in these days of all kinds of fever breaking toxins, and every village of any size and ambition is clamoring for its place on the chautauqua circuit.

The summer tourists, their name legion now that everybody who does not own an auto has some generous friend who does, have for weeks seen chautauqua pennants waving over the streets upon entering almost every village; these banners telling their tale of a chautauqua either past, present or to come.

It is certainly indicative of a broadening culture, when people in every community, in the heated summer season, often in a time that makes heavy demands upon busy people, are so interested in the uplifting class of entertainments which usually make up the chautauqua programs.

The second chautauqua season of Washington C. H. closed last night, and in its wake follows the verdict that it was eminently satisfactory, drawing crowds of people and sending them away satisfied.

It was throughout a strong course, giving an opportunity to hear splendid music, fine lectures, novelty programs and unusual presentations—such entertainment as is usually not heard throughout the season, crowded into one short week.

The real purpose of the chautauqua has always been to offer moral and intellectual uplift in the form of entertainment that will also prove enjoyable.

The financial success of the first chautauqua in this city was hazardous and the undertaking of the 1915 chautauqua involved some element of risk along these lines, but guarantors stepped forward and those who took the initiative and the risk, now have the satisfaction of knowing that the second chautauqua season was a big success—a success in large attendance, in pleased patrons and also financially.

The chautauqua was high class throughout.

Withal that the people responded so well it was surprising to the local management that there seemed to be a tardiness on the part of many in subscribing for tickets for the season of 1916. This was attributed by no means to any lack of interest or satisfaction in the chautauqua just closing, but rather to a natural reluctance in regard to plans so far ahead.

But it is necessary in order to insure a successful chautauqua to make plans ahead, and the active promoters are compelled to ask the assistance of the people in advance.

It is only another of those many good things of life which mean some venture and some unselfish effort if they are brought to successful completion.

Government and Destinies of a Nation Are Safest
In the Hands of Its Industrial Workers

By HUDSON MAXIM, Noted Inventor

THE private industries of a country are the greatest stabilizers of peace. The great bandit nations of history have never been industrial nations. The robber has never been a worker. The government and destinies of a nation are safest in the hands of its workers.

WHEN A NONINDUSTRIAL PEOPLE BECOME CONQUERORS THEY BECOME DESTROYERS. ON THE CONTRARY, WHEN AN INDUSTRIAL PEOPLE BECOME CONQUERORS THEY BECOME UPBUILDERS AND CIVILIZERS.

Nothing could be more suicidal than for this country to nationalize the manufacture of armaments and munitions of war, for if this were done the supreme means, the indispensable means of defending the nation in time of war, would be rendered unavailable.

If it be the hope of the pacifists to limit the production of armaments by nationalizing the manufacture of them they would exactly defeat their purpose by such nationalization, for the government would then be obliged either to discharge its skilled labor and dismantle its plants or to go into and continue the manufacture of war munitions on a most stupendous scale, FOR THE GOVERNMENT PLANTS COULD NOT BE EMPLOYED IN TIMES OF PEACE FOR THE MANUFACTURE OF OTHER MATERIALS, AS ARE PRIVATE PLANTS.

Poetry For Today

BEST DAYS.

The click of a reel and the swish of a line
And the thrill of a bending rod.
These are the joys in the dreams of mine
Away from the Haunts of Plod.
A few brief days with myself off there
To think of the things worth while.
To bathe my soul in a purer air
And live in a simple style.

And anchor splash in a favorite spot
And the fresh wind in my face.
What matters it whether they bite or not,
I am out of the grinding race.
I am once more on a laughing stream
From the sham of pride I'm free.
I am what I am as I sit and dream,
I am knowing a day with me.

A string of fish and a day well spent,
And a mind washed clean of hate,
A sense of holy and sweet content
Are the joys that I now await.
For to roam the woods or to whip a stream
Is to turn from the Haunts of Plod
And dwell where all things are what they seem
And read from the books of God.

A GROTESQUE BIRD

The Tufted Puffin Is the Joke of the Arctic Seas.

TO LOOK AT HIM IS TO LAUGH.

This Curious Creature Is Silent, Tranquil and Droll, With an Air of Profound Gravity and Spends His Winters Roaming Over the Ocean.

It is a curious fact that the far north and the far south each has a sea bird peculiar to itself, and in both cases these birds, although unlike one another in general appearance, are among the oddest looking members of the bird family that the world contains. The characteristic bird of the antarctic regions is the penguin, whose strutting companies, gathered on an icy shore, look like assemblages of little men, in long tailed black coats and spotless white waistcoats, waiting to sit down at ceremonious dinner.

The characteristic bird of the arctic regions is the auk, a thick set, awkward creature fond of fishing, like the penguin. The largest member of the family, the "great auk," or "gare fowl" has been driven into extinction within historic times. Another member, which the Audubon societies are trying to protect, is the queer looking, laughter exciting, and yet very grave and earnest native citizen of the north Pacific shores and islands, called the tufted puffin.

When the tufted puffin is looking his best (which is, of course, during the courting season) he wears a big red beak and a white mask, through which his green, red rimmed eyes gleam strangely, and shows a pair of bright vermilion legs and feet. From the top of his mask, on one side over the ear, curls a long golden white "feather horn." It seems that no description is able to convey the ludicrous impression which these birds make upon the beholder. Sailors seeing them for the first time break into guffaws of laughter. They call them "sea parrots" and on account of their droll grave manners they have also been nicknamed "Quakers."

Says William Leon Dawson: "It is difficult to exaggerate the gravity of these tranquil birds, always absolutely silent, save that when caught and harassed, they may emit a low, hoarse groan. They spend much time standing demurely at the entrances of their burrows, their little plumes nodding like tassels on so many caps."

Like all the auks, the puffins are especially remarkable for the great size of their beaks and the changes which their heads undergo at the breeding season. Some of the horny plates of the big beak fall away at the end of the season, the white mask on the face, together with its nodding plumes, disappears, the red eyelids fade and the whole head becomes blackish.

Naturalists are a little puzzled to account for the size and stoutness of the puffin's beak. If the bird were fond of clams its beak might be of use as a shell breaker, but it seems not to be employed in that way. Neither is it used to dig the tunnels or burrows that the bird forms for its nest in the hard soil of sea fronting cliffs. These are excavated to a depth of three or four feet, and apparently the only tools used are the sharp palled claws.

In some places it is estimated that several thousand burrows exist on a single acre of sloping shore. The rabbits and puffins engage in a lively competition for the possession of burrows on the Farallones islands, but the big, pyramid pointed beak gives easy victory in these contests. Mr. Dawson says a frightened rabbit will sometimes plunge hastily into a burrow without stopping to consider to whom it belongs, and when he comes out again, with more haste than ever, he is a subject for laughter.

The natives of the north Pacific islands depend largely upon puffins for both food and clothing. The Aleutian "parkas," or feather coats, are made of the skins of puffins, with the feather side turned inward. Forty-five or fifty skins sewed firmly together make a garment which is said to be nearly impervious to cold. The birds are often caught in flight by means of nets at the end of poles handled like butterfly nets. Unlike birds that are more skillful and agile on the wing, the puffins fly straight ahead and are unable to dodge quickly.

Strange as the statement may appear the puffins, like the auks generally, spend the winter at sea. At that season they are to be seen on land only when driven ashore by some resistless tempest, which strews the beaches with their battered forms, many dead and many hopelessly lamed. With the advance of spring and summer they approach the shores where they are accustomed to breed, and then the remarkable changes of their colors, form and plumage that have been already described begin to take place.—Garrett P. Serviss in Spokane Spokesman-Review.

Beggars of Costa Rica.
One day a week the beggars of Costa Rica are privileged characters—that is, on Tuesday they are allowed to beg from shop to shop. It is the custom for business houses to prepare for the weekly visit of the mendicants and to hand over to them small coins or articles of little value. In some instances where merchandise is given away the beggars peddle it about the poorer quarters and so earn a few cents apiece.

CONTRACT IS SIGNED FOR CHAUTAUQUA NEXT SEASON

Nearly 650 Tickets Pledged and Treat for Next Year Is Assured—Senator Wm. S. Kenyon, in Notable Lecture, Closes Most Successful Chautauqua Last Night—Patrons Are Highly Pleased.

United States Senator William S. Kenyon, of Iowa, brought the chautauqua to a close Friday night, after a week of genuine treats for all who attended the numerous sessions of the chautauqua. Senator Kenyon's lecture was one of the big numbers of the entire course, and he not only held the close attention of his auditors, but made them see things his way.

When the evening session opened 25 tickets remained to be pledged before the contract would be turned over to the Colt-Alber company, and within a short time the number had exceeded the 600 mark, and the contract for a chautauqua next year was placed in the hands of the bureau representative, amid an outburst of applause.

The L. A. C. Women's Orchestra furnished the forepart of the evening's program, rendering a program which proved popular to lovers of light music and specialties.

Senator Kenyon, in opening his address, stated that this city held peculiar interest for him because it was at one time the home of, and now the resting place of Capt. Joseph Yeoman, whom, he said, had been his ideal in life when he was a young man; that Capt. Yeoman had given him the fighting spirit and training which had been of such great benefit to him in his work. He praised Capt. Yeoman and stated that for several years Capt. Yeoman and himself were partners in Iowa.

Senator Kenyon proved himself an apostle of economy in conducting the national government, pointing out the enormous expenditures which have been made for a great many years, and which are simply thrown away upon almost worthless projects.

The public buildings graft, franking privilege, navy yards, garden seed distribution, and the rivers and harbors bills are the chief forms of "graft" used in squandering the tax payers' money, he announced, and then gave statistics substantiating his every claim.

He derided the seed distribution "graft" saying it was like sending cheap cigars out to get votes. He urged the people to insist that a federal dollar do the same work as a private dollar. Speaking of the moral wave which has swept into National legislation in recent years he expressed himself as glad to see it and in the same breath he advocated women suffrage and a dry nation. He urged more Christian men to enter politics for the good to be accomplished.

The latter part of his address was filled with overflowing patriotism of the right kind. He urged everyone to keep their heads during the present crisis; to stand firmly behind President Wilson, whom, he said, was entitled to the prayers and the support of every loyal American citizen, regardless of party affiliations.

"I have seen the grave face of Woodrow Wilson and noted the furrowed and worn expression there; I know something of the great burden of responsibility under which he labors, and the mighty strain upon him—the man who is guiding the destinies of the greatest people on earth," said Senator Kenyon.

He expressed himself as a firm believer in Providence shaping the destinies of nations and the lives of men.

"There is just as much patriotism in the hearts of American citizens now as when the call to arms came in '61," he continued. A proper navy and adequate army was advocated.

In closing he expressed confidence in the future of the United States, which he believed would be the greatest of any nation under the sun.

DOUSE GLIMMER OR PAY A FINE; HOW IT'S DONE

The new "dimmer ordinance" requiring that all brilliant automobile lamps be dimmed while running on the thoroughfares of the city, is now in effect, and a fine is provided by the ordinance as punishment for failure to observe the mandate.

The dimming ordinance was introduced in order to prevent auto lights blinding the drivers of other vehicles, as is the case at the present time. When the brilliant light pours into the eyes of the driver of another machine or other vehicle, it blinds the driver so that he trusts to luck until the blinding light is passed, rendering danger of accidents very great.

Many inquiries have arisen as to methods used in dimming the lights and the following methods have just been announced by the Safety Director of Cincinnati, and could be applied in this city as well as in Cincinnati, it is believed:

"All headlights on all vehicles must have full half of lamp in front of light darkened by painting with some opaque pigment or covered with an opaque hood. For acetylene lights, darkening the upper half will be deemed a compliance with the ordinance."

BADGES FOR D. T. CLUB COMMITTEE

AUTOS ASSEMBLE AT ONE O'CLOCK FOR GREENFIELD

Automobiles bearing members of the men's Bible classes of the various churches in this city will assemble in front of the court house on Court street, at one o'clock, prompt, Sunday afternoon for the trip to Greenfield.

Indications are that there will be a large number of men from this city who will attend the big meeting—the first of its kind ever held in Ohio, and profound interest is manifested in the event.

Final arrangements for the trip will be made at the sessions of the various classes tomorrow morning. In all the classes from two-score places have been invited, and most of them have responded with the assurance that large delegations will be sent. There is no charge of admission for the meeting.

The following article from the Chillicothe Gazette gives a fair idea of the magnitude of the meeting: "From all indications, Chillicothe is going to send a large delegation of men to the big rally of Men's Bible Classes at Greenfield, on next Sunday afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock, at which rally there will be delegations from all towns within a radius of twenty-five miles of Greenfield. Delegations from practically every church in the city will go to the big get-together meeting. It is planned to make the trip by auto and it is probable that there will be a score or more of autos leave the city Sunday, loaded with enthusiastic bible students and persons interested in bible work."

MOLECULES AND HEAT.

Why Hot Water Dissolves Most Substances Quicker Than Cold.

Most housewives know that sugar will dissolve far more quickly in hot water than in cold, but very few know that salt will dissolve in cold water just as quickly as when the water is boiling. In this salt is somewhat of an exception, for most substances dissolve much more easily when water is hot.

The reason for this was a mystery in the middle ages, and it is only since the modern knowledge of molecules that it could be explained.

Heat is nothing more nor less than an increase in the speed with which the molecules are revolving. This is easily seen in molasses. When very cold it will hardly flow at all, when warmed it will pour slowly, but when boiling hot it will pour in a thin sirup almost as liquid as milk. In the same way boiling water is more liquid than cold water.

As dissolving a piece of sugar means that the sugar enters into the tiny spaces between the molecules of the water, the more quickly they are moving the easier it is for the sugar to get it. For, it must be remembered, you can fill a glass to a certain level, and after that put in two, three or even four lumps of sugar and the glass will be no fuller than before.

The reason for this is shown by merely thinking of the process on a large scale. Suppose a bowl were filled full of marbles. You could pour a lot of bird shot into it without making the marbles rise any higher in the bowl. The shot would be filling in all the little cracks between the marbles, and if you stirred the marbles slowly the shot would little by little find its place. That is like the sugar in cold water.

But if the marbles were being whirled around rapidly the shot would rapidly fill every place and the bowl would be full of shot. Yet the marbles would not be any higher in the bowl. Then, after all that, you could pour water into the bowl and it would get into the small spaces between the round shot, and still the marbles would not be any higher in the bowl. It is in this way that substances which have been dissolved find their way into the liquids into which they have been dissolved.—New York American.

Naming a City.

From the Cleveland Plain Dealer we learn that the modern spelling of the name of the city is due to the error of a type manufacturer who sent to the Cleveland Herald, in 1831, a new set of type which was too "fat," as printers say. In other words, too wide to allow the heading of the paper to be spelled in the old and correct way. As the correction of the mistake was a matter of about ten weeks, so slow were the transportation facilities of those days, the printer suggested that the first "a" be left out of the name. It was done, and thus the town received a new name.

BUILDING OF TEMPORARY CHURCH IS AUTHORIZED

Congregation of St. Andrews to Erect Portable Steel Structure on Market Street—Contract Let and Work to Begin at Once.

At a meeting of the executive board of St. Andrews Episcopal Mission Saturday morning, plans were submitted and approved and Mr. Wm. Mackey, of Columbus, architect and builder, was authorized to go ahead with the construction of a temporary church building on West Market street on the lot adjoining the Burnett building. The contract calls for the completion of the building by August 25.

The building will be of the portable kind and the material chiefly of steel. It is expected that the building will be erected and ready for occupancy in a month. The work of construction will begin immediately.

TEUTONS ASSAULT FIERCELY

Germans Assail Russian Armies Defending the City.

PROGRESS CLAIMED BY BERLIN

Not Expected That Decisive Action on Any of the Eastern Fronts Will Be Fought For a Few Days Yet—Russians to Make Every Effort to Hold Present Positions—Operations Elsewhere in the War Zone.

London, July 24. — Late dispatches from the eastern front state that the Austrians and Germans are pushing their great attacks against the Russian armies defending Warsaw with undiminished energy and that at some points progress has been made.

The Teutonic forces are operating through country which the retiring troops have laid waste and what roads there are are little suited for the movement of the heavy artillery which is necessary for the bombardment of the fortresses that bar their way. It is not expected, therefore, that decisive actions on any of the fronts will be fought for a few days yet, although the battle between the Vistula and the Bug rivers, where German Field Marshal Von Mackensen's army is advancing toward the Lublin-Cholm railroad, has about reached the climax. Here, according to the German official communication, the Germans have succeeded in breaking the obstinate resistance of the Russians at several points and forced them to retreat. The Russians, however, have had lots of time to prepare a series of positions, and it is believed that they will make every effort to hold them until, if it becomes necessary, their army is able to retire from Warsaw.

To the south of Warsaw, in front of the fortress of Ivangorod, the Russians have retired to the Vistula river, which, with its forts and a lack of bridges, it is believed, must form a barrier which the Austrians and Germans will find it difficult to overcome.

The northern German army under Field Marshal Von Hindenburg also is reported to have made progress, but it is said that it has not yet been able to cross the Narew river, another natural defense of the Russian triangle behind the Polish capital.

In fact, all along this front the Russians have resumed their counter attacks from the fortress of Novogeorgievsk, but these, according to the German accounts, failed in their purpose.

severe fighting is still going on in the Argonne and in the Vosges on the western battle front, but without bringing any very material changes in the positions of the opposing armies. It is reported unofficially that the Germans are massing troops at St. Mihiel for a more extended offensive. That the Germans will attempt an offensive here is considered by the military observers as quite likely, as they assert that the recent activity of the German crown prince's army shows that they are hoping to weaken the French hold on Verdun.

TROLLEY CAR CRASHES INTO STEAM ROLLER

Six Persons Injured In An Accident Near Fostoria.

Fostoria, O., July 24. — Six persons were injured, two seriously, when a northbound T. E. and F. car struck a steam roller belonging to a road builder, six miles north of the city, near Longley. The car was manned by Motorman Judd Gray and Conductor A. J. Fuller, both of Findlay. The roller was owned by Bert Foos, a contractor of Fostoria, and operated by Carl Derwestern of Fostoria. The seriously injured are Motorman Gray and Derwestern. The roller, weighing three tons, was hurled forty feet, and the car turned over on its side in the ditch. Twelve passengers were in the car, all of whom escaped by crawling through a rear window.

The boiler of the steam roller burst, enveloping the track in steam and setting fire to part of the wreckage.

WOODS THAT SINK.

There Are Many Varieties That Will Not Float in Water.

That wood floats is such a common-place fact in our lives that we hardly give it any thought. If we lived in tropical climates we would learn to distinguish between woods that float and woods that do not float. Many of the woods of Mexico and South America are so heavy even when perfectly dry that they will sink in water, notably lignum vitae, which is the wood commonly used for bowling balls.

Among our common native woods there are several that will not float when green. The cypress of the south is often girdled a year before it is cut so that it will die and dry while standing, thus making it possible to float the logs to the mill.

The reason why some woods float is not because the substance of which they are made is lighter than water, but because the cavities in the cells are so large that the air in them buoys up the wood. The material (cellulose) which composes the greater part of the cell wall is heavier than water, so that if the air in the cells is replaced by water the wood will sink. This is just what happens to wood which has been in water for a long time and has become "waterlogged."

It is the large water content of the heartwood of freshly felled oaks and hickories and of the sapwood of certain conifers that causes these woods to sink, for when dry they will float.

Lignum vitae and other heavy tropical woods, even when dry, sink because most of the cell cavities are so small compared to the thick cell walls that the air in the cavities is not enough to float the wood.

FIRING A TORPEDO.

How a Submarine Flings Forth the Deadly Projectile.

When a submarine sights a hostile vessel a group of sailors quickly cluster round the torpedo tube. This is loaded with its instrument of destruction, and behind it a powder charge is inserted in a receptacle and the trigger controlling the firing mechanism cocked ready.

A gunner proceeds to estimate the speed of the target and its course through glasses. He then adjusts a device known as the "director," which by means of dials tells him when the tube is pointing in the right direction to launch the torpedo true to its mark. At a distance of about 3,000 yards the gunner presses a button, the powder charge explodes and a pressure of fifty pounds per square inch is put upon the rear end of the torpedo.

The well greased projectile is forced through the open end of the tube at a rate of thirty-five feet per second, and as it takes the water in a long flat dive the twin propellers in the rear set to work. They are driven by an air pressure of 2,250 pounds, which sets the driving machinery in motion as the torpedo leaps from its tube.

A gyroscope steering gear prevents the torpedo from deviating from a straight path, and unless it is carelessly fired or its target quickly maneuvers out of the way the 1500 projectile seldom misses its mark.—London Answers.

STUCK IN THE MUD.

That Was the Normal Condition In Chicago Village In 1833.

An elaborate series of descriptions of middle western road conditions is contained in Charles Cleave's "History of Chicago From 1832 to 1892, Illustrating the Difficulties of the Route From New York to Chicago." In the village of Chicago in 1833, Cleave tells us:

"Parties informed us that in the spring we would find it almost impossible to get around for the mud, a truth forcibly illustrated when a few months later I got into a wagon to go about one and a half miles northwest. It was with the greatest difficulty that two good horses could pull the empty wagon through the two feet of mud and water across the prairie. * * * A year or two later I saw many teams stuck fast in the streets of the village."

"I remember once a stagecoach got mired in Clark street opposite the Sherman House, where it remained several days, with a board driven into the mud bearing this inscription, 'No bottom here.' I once saw a lady stuck in the mud in the middle of Randolph street. She was evidently in need of help, as every time she moved she sank deeper and deeper. An old gentleman from the country offered to help her, which had such an effect upon her modesty that with one desperate effort she drew her feet out minus her shoes."

Why You Sneezes.

There is more than one cause for sneezing, and persons may differ in their susceptibility to them. A bright light will cause some persons to sneeze, the pollen of certain plants will affect others, and most people are likely to sneeze in the presence of dust. Such sneezing is due to superficial irritation.

The sneeze caused by the effect of cold is different. It is an attempt of nature to cure you. She makes you sneeze for the same reason that she makes you shiver—to generate heat for warming the blood and preventing you from taking more cold—to help relieve the cold you have.

The sneezing from cold is not an act of the nose alone, this being merely the part of the body where it explodes. It is an act of the entire body during which every muscle gives a jump. The body is affected by a spasmodic effort to warm the entire system and throw off the cold.—Boston Herald.

Destiny.

Destiny is either the excuse men give for their errors or a humble supplement to their successes. Destiny reconciles a man to unpaid bills, the abuse of the proletariat, ingratitude and relatives, especially if they are his own.

A man who is making progress is thought—by himself—to control his own destiny. When he isn't making progress his destiny controls him.

Destiny is always at work. When it is not doing it is undoing. It has a star for a trademark which is recognized in every country in the world. It has made a great many see double.

Not everybody has a destiny. Some are comparatively happy.—Life.

A Natural Deficit.

"Do you find much change in the old town?" asked an interested friend of Colonel Sellemquick, the eminent promoter.

"Well, no," replied the colonel thoughtfully. "But then I scarcely expected any. You see, I got most of the local supply before I went away."—Richmond Times-Dispatch.

LIFE ON A SUBMARINE.

There Are No Comforts, and Sleep is Almost Impossible.

Speaking of life on a submarine, one of Uncle Sam's naval officers stationed on one of these under sea terrors says: "Every minute the men are in the submarine means the risk of pneumonia and tuberculosis. The entire inside of the boat sweats like a pitcher of ice water on a hot day. Before we are on it three hours our clothes are soaked, and they stay that way. We have absolutely no heat, which means that the boat is the temperature of the outside air. Sometimes we nearly freeze. The doctors say that the men on a submarine never sleep; they merely become unconscious for brief intervals. The air, the odors from the machinery, the constant vibration and the intense strain under which you labor make sleep an impossibility.

"In a storm, when we have to seal up, the air gets worse than anything you can imagine. There are eighteen men and two officers in one of our boats, and at any moment any one of the twenty may cause the death of all the rest. There is no room for mistakes. The space in which the men live is fifty feet long and about ten feet wide. I can stand upright if I pick my place, but most of the time my shoulders are bent. There are no bunks; we all spread our mattresses on an iron deck. The dining room consists of four electric hot plates. Nothing in the nature of a spark is allowed below decks, but we can heat up coffee on the hot plates and occasionally fry things. We can't smoke, and the vibration of the engines makes it impossible to read or even play cards, so when we are not working there's nothing for us to do but sit on the floor and look at each other."—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

CULTIVATE RELIABILITY.

It is Always in Demand and Adds to a Man's Worth.

The demand for reliability never ceases. If you buy a piece of machinery you want it to be dependable. When you purchase new clothes you desire them to be durable. If you elect an official you require that he shall be trustworthy. When you take on an employee you inquire whether he can be relied on, as to his word, his work, his loyalty. It is so in all the relations of life. While there is much unreliability, you never hear of anybody seeking it or placing a premium upon it.

The reliable man is always spoken of in terms of praise. His friends boast that he can be depended upon to do a certain thing under a certain set of circumstances without variableness or shadow of turning. They say they can find him in the dark and can trust him then with the same faith as in the broad light of day. They refer to him as one whom you can tie to. They have no fears that he will either default or betray. He has all the steadiness and fidelity of a well trained plow horse. He may lack brilliance and flash. He may not be a genius. But as far as his abilities go he is as reliable as time itself, and thus he becomes more or less of an institution in the circle within which he moves and an anchorage for those dependent upon him in any way whatever.—Pittsburgh Gazette-Times.

Women Architects.

"I wonder why there are so few women architects?" "Perhaps women are afraid they might be called designing creatures."

Becoming Faint.

Cook—The tea is quite exhausted, ma'am. Mistress—I noticed that it seemed very weak the last time.—Boston Globe.

He that always complains is never pitied.—German Proverb.

LETTER FROM HOPPE'S PARTY TELLS OF INTERESTING TRIP

Met Gossard Party at Greenville, Ill., and Met a Fayette County Man Way Out in Kansas—Saw Many Places of Interest and Arrived in Los Angeles With "Ohio Air in All the Tires"

A letter from Los Angeles, Cal., to the P. F. Orman Company from Valentine Hoppe, who, with his automobile party, is now in the west after a cross continental tour of a month's duration, outlines the trip and states that the members of the party are well and happy and enjoying the trip hugely.

On the trip the party touched at Terre Haute, Ind.; Mulberry, Ill.; Greenville, Ill.; St. Louis, Mo.; St. Charles, Mo.; Highaby, Mo.; Marshall, Mo.; Kansas City, Mo.; McPherson, Kan.; Dodge City, Kan.; Syracuse, Kan.; La Junta, Colo.; Pueblo, Colo.; Trinidad, Colo.; Las Vegas, N. Mex.; Santa Fe, N. Mex.; Albuquerque, N. Mex.; Magdalena, N. Mex.; Springerville, Ariz.; Winslow, Ariz.; Flagstaff, Ariz.; Grand Canyon, Ariz.; Needles, Cal.; Death Valley, San Bernardino, Cal., and thence to Los Angeles.

The party visited many places of interest and experienced all sorts of weather and driving conditions. Among other places the tourists visited Pike's Peak, the Garden of the Gods, Cave of the Winds, Seven Falls, Cliff Dwellers of Pueblo, Stratton Park and the grave of Helen Hunt Jackson, all in Colorado, a number of Mexican villages near Santa Fe, the great Petrified Forest of Arizona, the cliff dwellers, Sunset Mountain, the Painted Desert and numerous caves, canyons, and lava beds in the vicinity of Flagstaff, Arizona, the Grand Canyon, and the great Death Valley of California.

At Greenville, Ill., the party met the Gossard party of this city; also on the way to California. In Kansas the party met a man named Wells, who was formerly of Fayette county and who kept in touch with Fayette county news. He knew the party was coming and was standing at the gate in front of his farmhouse awaiting its arrival.

The party left Washington on June 21. The letter adds: "We arrived in Los Angeles about 4:30 p. m., July 14, the speedometer reading 3,107 miles, without an adjustment of any kind on our car and with OHIO air in all the tires."

NOTABLE OCCASION IN NEIGHBORING TEMPLE

Washington Temple, Pythian Sisters, visited "Blooming Rose Temple" at Bloomingburg Thursday night, to put on the work and assist in the initiation of five candidates.

It was a most interesting occasion and representatives from the Jeffersonville and Madison Mills Temples, together with the stag, officers and other members of the local Temple to the number of 40, were given most hospitable entertainment by Blooming Rose Temple.

The work was most beautifully put on by Washington Temple in charge of Mrs. John W. Wilson, Most Excellent chief.

The five candidates initiated were Mrs. C. J. Noble, Mrs. Robert McCoy, Miss Myrtle Klever, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Eggleston. Mr. and Mrs. Eggleston took the work.

The evening wound up with a delightful social hour, during which refreshments were served.

Temporarily Mr. Hughey will remain in this city, his plans in regard to a permanent location not yet being definitely decided.

TOURISTS ARE PLEASED WITH PLANS HERE

The State Journal Auto Carnival, which is scheduled to arrive in this city next Tuesday afternoon is steadily increasing in size, and a great number of machines have entered the tour and the first of the machines will reach this city shortly after four o'clock Tuesday afternoon, and remain one hour.

Arrangements are being made here to entertain the visitors at the Y. M. C. A. and virtually all business men are expected to be at the reception tendered the visitors.

Regarding the invitation to be the guests of the Dutch Treat Club while here, the State Journal of Saturday morning says:

"In mails of yesterday came letters of much interest to all those who contemplate being members of the carnival throng. For instance, Edward Fite, of Washington C. H. wrote to C. C. Jones, chairman of the general committee, as follows:

"We have here in Washington C. H. an organization known as the Dutch Treat Club. It is composed of the business and professional men of our city. We meet each Thursday for luncheon at the Y. M. C. A. At our regular meeting this week a committee was appointed to arrange for the reception of our traveling carnival next week. We shall be very glad to extend whatever courtesy we can. Our Y. M. C. A. offers an ideal place for a reception."

"Certainly the ladies and gentlemen of the carnival party will be delighted to accept the hospitality of the Dutch Treaters while in Washington C. H., on Tuesday afternoon."

VERTICAL BINDER DRAWS BIG CROWDS

The new verticle wheat binder, perfected by a Xenian, was tried out in the presence of a large crowd, including a number of big corporation men who are said to be desirous of buying the patents covering the Clark Verticle Binder.

It is the object of the binder to bind the wheat while it is standing, so that no wheat will be lost by shattering. The machine promises to revolutionize wheat reaping.

Each member of the college draws a yearly allowance of £110 and on admission receives £25 worth of furniture for his two rooms, unless he prefers to bring his own. There are well trained men servants, and to every three members one maid servant is allotted. Members must attend a certain number of chapel services and be in by 11 o'clock at night if they come in at all, but there is no other restriction on their liberty, and they can go away for weeks at a time if they choose.—London Chronicle.

The Human Brain.
Our brains are seventy year clocks. The angel of life winds them up once for all, then closes the case and gives the key into the hand of the angel of the resurrection. Tick-tack, tick-tack, go the wheels of thought. Our will cannot stop them. They cannot stop themselves. Sleep cannot still them. Madness only makes them go faster. Death alone can break into the case, and, seizing the ever swinging pendulum which we call the heart, silence at last the clicking of the terrible escapement we have carried so long beneath our wrinkled foreheads.—Holmes.

A Strict Party Man.
"Do you promise to love, honor and cherish this woman?"
"Yes," said the politician. "Whatever the platform is, I subscribe to it."
